FAQ

What type of terminals are there?

We offer a full suite of terminals and are happy to advise you based on the needs of your business. This includes stationary, portable and online terminals.

What are the different ways I can take cards?

All of our card machines readily accept chip-and-PIN, digital wallet and contactless payments. We also provide virtual terminals that allow your business to take payments online or over the phone.

What else do I need to process credit cards?

In addition to a credit card machine, you will need a Merchant Account. This will allow you to accept the full range of Mastercard and Visa credit and debit cards.

What are the costs?

There are two types of cost involved in credit card processing. First, there will be a charge for the rental of the card machine. Second, there are transaction charges depending both on the type of card processed and the nature of the business you are running.

If my terminal breaks down, how long will it take for a replacement to be sent?

Normally within 24 hours (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and public holidays).
